Inside
KEY WEST

The pace is slow in Key West, the southernmost city in the continental United States. Here, flip-flops and tank tops pass for formalwear, and sunsets are celebrated. Despite an influx of cruise ships, and tourism over the years, which has upped the traffic on the main drag Duval Street, the island city still moves to its own beat.

Follow in the footsteps of Ernest Hemingway, Tennessee Williams and Harry S. Truman while exploring the eclectic streets of Old Town. Dine on fresh seafood and key lime pie at one of the many delightful restaurants tucked away in quiet neighborhoods. Step into history at Fort Zachary Taylor or enjoy a sunset sail with a cocktail (or two). Snorkel the magical underwater world of the Dry Tortugas, an isolated seven-island cluster about 70 miles west of the city.

The adventures are limitless in this offbeat town at the end of the road.

PACKING TIPS

1. Bring comfortable shoes. Walking “is really nice - not just down Duval but also the side streets to see all the conch houses, wild chickens and cats.”—TripAdvisor Member, Plainville, Mass.
2. Pack a motion sickness preventative to combat bouncy boat rides.
3. Shorts and tees are the island uniform. Casual pants or a sundress are as fancy as it gets.
4. Don’t leave home without sunblock. Key West’s latitude is south of Cairo’s, and the rays are brutal.
Top Views

KEY WEST’S BEST VIEWS

Lovely pictures are the reward for climbing the narrow spiral staircase of the Key West Lighthouse and Keeper’s Quarters Museum. “You can see the top of the old Victorian buildings and overlook Key West.”—TripAdvisor Member, Keystone Heights, Fla.

Key West Lighthouse and Keeper’s Quarters Museum, 938 Whitehead St., 305 294 0012

The Shipwreck Museum was an “unexpected treat! We thought it was just a museum and that would have been fun, but the show they put was great, too. The tower at the top is a must—a great view and a good way to get your bearings.”—TripAdvisor Member, Florida

Key West Shipwreck Museum, 1 Whitehead St., 305 292 8990

The Oversea Highway drive south can seem uneventful until the Lower Keys. “When you begin driving over the long bridges and see the watery expanses dotted with islands near and in the distance, you realize that you really are driving out into the sea.”—TripAdvisor Member, Covington, Ky.

ADVENTURE

“We highly recommend a trip to the Dry Tortugas! We took an interesting tour of Fort Jefferson and spent time snorkeling. The visibility was very clear, like snorkeling in an aquarium. How often do you get to visit such a remote location and see such wonderful sights?”—TripAdvisor Member, Leesburg, Va.

Dry Tortugas, Dry Tortugas National Park, 305 242 7700

“Danger Charters takes you kayaking in a wildlife-rich area, where you can see dolphins, sea turtles, moray eels, stingrays, cormorants, pelicans, and jellyfish. It was definitely the highlight of our trip!”—TripAdvisor Member, Hamilton, Ontario

Danger Charters, Westin Marina #8, 305 304 7999

“Since the Vandenberg Wreck was only sunk recently, it is still in very good condition. There are already some great fish making it home, including some giant grouper and large barracuda.”—TripAdvisor Member

EDUCATIONAL/HISTORICAL

The Ernest Hemingway Home is “a quintessential part” of Key West, with its beautiful grounds and “all the six-toed cats.” Take the tour “because there are several interesting anecdotes that you’d otherwise miss.”—TripAdvisor Member, Sarasota, Fla.

Ernest Hemingway Home and Museum, 907 Whitehead St., 305 294 1136

Harry S. Truman’s Little White House “offers a great glimpse into the life and legacy” of this fascinating leader and “the tour was informative and insightful.”—TripAdvisor Member, Houston, Texas

Harry S. Truman’s Little White House, 111 Front St., 305 294 9911

“Everyone comes to Mallory Square for the sunset. “There are lots of entertainers, such as jugglers, tightrope walkers and trained animals. Take your favorite drink and have your camera ready” when the sun goes down.”—TripAdvisor Member, The Netherlands

Mallory Square, 300 Duval St., 305 292 7700

RELAXATION

“West Martello is a (free) delightful garden right on Higgs Beach. We had a picnic and caught the sunset. East Martello was interesting, too. The inside of the fort tells the story of Key West.”—TripAdvisor Member, Orlando, Fla.

West Martello Tower & Gardens, 1100 Atlantic Ave., 305 294 3210

“From the second you walk into the Key West Butterfly and Nature Conservatory, you become captivated. It’s very Zen walking along the little path listening to the ‘spa’ music, looking at the foliage and the butterflies.”—TripAdvisor Member, Melbourne, Fla.

Key West Butterfly and Nature Conservatory, 1316 Duval St., 305 296 2988
